March 2023

Oxfam is a global movement of people who are fighting inequality to end poverty and injustice. There are currently 21 member organizations working in 87 countries. We have a vision of a just and sustainable world. A world where people and the planet are at the center of our economy. Where women and girls live free from violence and discrimination. Where the climate crisis is contained. And where governance systems are inclusive and allow for those in power to be held to account.

Oxfam in Vietnam believes that a reduction in poverty, injustice, and inequality will occur through the interaction between active citizens, accountable states and responsible private sector and that it is fundamental to Vietnam's development. Oxfam in Vietnam aims to influence the current growth-based development model to shift to a Human Economy Development Model, putting people and the planet before profits.

1. Background and rationale

Over the past two decades, non-profit organizations (NPOs), and social organizations have increased in quantity and quality, with diverse types and meaningful contributions to development. Social organizations, non-state and nonprofit actors respond to the needs of vulnerable groups, towards a more equal society and narrowing the gap between divergent groups in society. NPOs' financial sustainability based on financial compliance and autonomy is important for them to play the above role.

Oxfam operates in a dynamic environment that is characterized by partnership building with many international donors, as well as other local organizations. This is coupled with the continued expectation that Oxfam upholds its integral values of accountability and transparency. The approach to address these increasingly complex and changing needs is to adopt strategies and processes and develop them in such a way that the Oxfam and its partners can form strong mutual partnerships.

As an international organization responding to a rapidly evolving environment, the use of data is becoming increasingly important for Oxfam, to inform both the day-to-day and strategic decisions that affect the work operations within the organization. In line with this mandate, Oxfam is looking for a competent firm to provide training services for its staff in Advanced and Intermediate Microsoft office applications.
