

COMMISSION ON DEVELOPMENT AND LABOUR

The United Nations Commission on Development and Labour (UNCDL) is a programme promoting social development across the world. It provides substantive support to Governments in developing policy measures and initiatives to promote inclusive "societies for all", where each individual has rights and responsibilities regardless of economic status (poverty), social status (gender, marital), specific age group (older persons, youth), disability or cultural or religious affiliation. The aim is to ensure that individuals and communities are enabled to participate in society and contribute to national development while enjoying basic human rights and fundamental freedoms.

The Commission also provides support in the area of social assessment, promoting training and research in participatory methodologies designed to enhance development planning and evaluation, and to build capacity to implement and monitor socially sensitive policies. The Commission is working to develop cross-sectoral approaches that link development activities in a holistic manner, and works in close cooperation with United Nations regional commissions, funds, programmes and specialized agencies.

We presently require the services of resourceful, experienced and dynamic candidates for the following positions listed below:-
