Assignment name:

The ENTERPRISE SURVEY

Description of Project:

Mekong Economics Ltd. conducts an Enterprise Survey for an international client to gather data on local enterprises in a country in the Pacific. This survey will be conducted as part of the Client's market research to assess local and national capacity against current and anticipated demand for goods, services, and labor and identify the greatest opportunities and constraints within the Country's industrial supply base.

This research will allow foreign investors and companies to better understand the Country's industries and thus allow them to conduct business more readily with local companies. The intended outcome of this research, therefore, is to increase the number of business opportunities available broadly to local businesses in the Country.
